RrhoidCathTM System Overview

RrhoidCath™ Pain Management System, for pain relief after Haemorrhoidectomy.

Postoperative pain following haemorrhoidectomy is widely recognised as severe and difficult to manage. Conventional approaches, including analgesics and opioids, often provide limited relief and carry risks of adverse effects.

The novel RrhoidCath™ Pain Management System offers a targeted solution designed to improve patient comfort, and reduce post-surgical intervention.

RrhoidCath™ - The Procedure:

During your haemorrhoidectomy procedure, your surgeon will place small tubes called catheters into your buttocks area and guide them towards the nerves related to the haemorrhoid area. These tubes will then come through an area near your hip. Once in place, your surgeon will connect the tubes to the medication bags and cover the tubes with a flat disc that will sit on your hip area and cover where the tubes will be located. The tubes will then be used to deliver small doses of pain medication directly to the haemorrhoid nerves to provide pain relief during your recovery.

After the Procedure:

After the procedure has finished you will leave with 2 small box-shaped pumps along with a small bag filled with fluid containing medication, which are all placed in a small shoulder bag. Comfortable fitting clothing can be worn over the device (please note; we recommend pants or skirts be worn as dresses may not be suitable).

RrhoidCath at Home:

The pumps you take home each have a pain relief button which should be pressed every day at around 7:00am and 7:00pm.

You can only push the pain relief button up to 2 times every 24 hours. Because of this, every morning you will need to wait an additional 10 minutes before pressing the button to allow the medication to be delivered.

Once you push the button a small amount of medication will travel down the tubes to the nerves located near where your haemorrhoids were removed. This will provide pain relief through the day to assist in your recovery.

Your surgeon will also provide you any further details of other medications or techniques used to limit post-operative pain.

Example:

Day 1: 7:00am

Day 2: 7:10am

Day 3: 7:20am

Please be advised that if you have any questions or concerns, please contact your surgeon's rooms.
